

Getting Pregnant and HIV: List of HIV-Friendly Reproductive Services and Providers in the US <sup>[1]</sup>

Submitted on May 13, 2016

Below is a list of friendly family planning providers who are informed about pregnancy planning for people living with HIV. If you are an HIV-friendly family planning provider and would like your name, organization, or clinic to be added to this resource list, please carefully fill out the form at the bottom of this page (or access the form by clicking this link <sup>[2]</sup>). Please allow several weeks for the page to be updated with your information. Readers: Please be aware that these listings are self-reported, and that The Well Project is unable to review each entry for accuracy.

Sometimes it can be difficult to find a friendly health care provider who is knowledgeable about HIV and pregnancy. Some health care providers simply are not aware of the wealth of information about pregnancy planning for their patients living with HIV (HIV+). Perhaps even more challenging, though, are the judgmental attitudes that many health care providers still hold. Thankfully, the situation is changing and there are now reliable resources for finding the information and services you need.
