HIV & WOMEN

GET THE FACTS

www.thewellproject.org

MYTH:

Having HIV means I'll never have another romantic or sexual relationship.

www.thewellproject.org

FACT:

If you take your HIV drugs as prescribed and your viral load is Undetectable, your HIV is Untransmittable when you have sex.

U = U

Those who don't have an undetectable viral load can enjoy intimacy too! Condoms and PrEP are available to prevent HIV transmission.*

MYTH:

Having HIV means
I can never have a baby or start a family.

FACT:

*All around the world,
women living with HIV are giving birth to babies who don't have HIV. With proper treatment and care, there is less than a 1% chance of transmitting HIV to your baby.*

Did YOU Know?

People living with HIV who take HIV drugs daily and keep an undetectable viral load CANNOT sexually transmit HIV to their partners.
#UequalsU

A once-daily pill can greatly reduce your risk of acquiring HIV. Ask your doctor about PrEP.

Women make up more than 50% of people living with HIV across the globe.

When they take HIV medication as prescribed, people living with HIV can have nearly the same life expectancy as people who are not living with HIV.

Trans women are 49 times more at risk of living with HIV than the general population.

Women living with HIV
